

REPLY TO HAWAII
MADE BY JAPAN

EASTERN EMPIRE CONSENTS TO ARBITRATION.

Difficulty Will Be Settled—King of the Belgians Proposed As Sole Arbitrator—One Point that Count Okuma, Japan's Foreign Minister, Will Not Yield.

Washington, Sept. 8.—The full text of the formal acceptance by the Japanese government of the proposal to arbitrate its differences with Hawaii has been received in this city, and a copy was delivered Tuesday to Secretary Sherman by the secretary of the Japanese legation, Mr. Matsui. It is from Count Okuma, minister of foreign affairs, to H. Shimamura, Japanese minister to Hawaii. After acknowledging the receipt of Hawaii's offer of arbitration it says:

"The imperial government are firmly convinced that their complaints in this matter are well founded and that their demands are just and reasonable. Nevertheless, in a spirit of conciliation and in the hope that their action may contribute to the good relations of the two countries, they have resolved to accept, subject to certain necessary limitations and qualifications, the proposal of the government of Hawaii.

"The reasons assigned by the minister of foreign affairs of Hawaii in favor of arbitration make it also desirable that the award, when pronounced, shall be of the highest and most commanding character. Consequently the imperial government propose that the two governments shall, when the proper time arrives, unite in requesting that his majesty the king of the Belgians may be pleased to accept the position of sole arbitrator.

"The imperial government are, moreover, persuaded of the desirability of expressly defining the scope of the reference, not only in order to lighten the labors of the arbitrator, but with the view as well that the decision may address itself solely to the actual points of divergence.

"We, therefore, propose that the two governments shall agree to the essential facts of the case and that the arbitration shall be limited to specified questions at law, and (in case the award is in favor of Japan) the measure of damages suffered by the subjects of his imperial majesty.

"It is due to frankness that I should, in this connection, state that for reasons which are fully set forth in another instruction the imperial government cannot consent that the question of the bona fides of the possession of $50 by each of the rejected free laborers, or of the applicability of the treaty of 1871 to the Japanese subjects other than those belonging to the merchant class, shall be regarded as points of issue upon which the decision of the arbitrator is to be invited.

"If the government of the republic are prepared to meet the imperial government upon the foregoing essential points, it is not apprehended that any difficulty will be experienced in arriving at an understanding in reference to questions of minor importance.

"I am, sir, etc., etc.,
"COUNT OKUMA SHIGENOBU,
"Minister of Foreign Affairs."

The following extracts from the instruction referred to by Count Okuma explain why the Japanese government wishes to restrict the scope of the arbitration. Alluding to Mr. Cooper's objection to the use of the words "arbitrary" and "capricious" in characterizing the refusal of the Hawaiian government to allow the Japanese immigrants to land, Count Okuma says:

"Mr. Cooper, I observe, takes exception to the words employed by me in criticizing the action of the Hawaiian authorities. He will, I am sure, understand that I have no intention of making use of a single expression that could not be fully sustained. In my instruction of the 12th of June I expressed the firm conviction that the acts of expulsion were in violation of treaty stipulations; were without warrant or due process of law, and is disregard of the remedial rights of the expelled immigrants, and also that those immigrants had been restrained of their liberty. That instruction has not yet been answered, and unless it can be shown that the conviction thus advanced was erroneous, I shall not be able to admit that any word having a less precise meaning than 'arbitrary' would accurately describe the nature of the proceedings complained of."

MRS. FELDT IS FURIOUS.

Wants to Go Back on the Witness Stand and Tell Some More.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—Angered at questions asked her by Lawyer Vincent, Mrs. Christine Feldt admitted to State's Attorney Deneen that she shielded Luetgert in her first examination, and requested that she be put back on the witness stand. She declares that she is able to tell more damaging facts, and is eager for the opportunity. She probably will be given her desire.

Luetgert's love letters to Mrs. Feldt were read to the jury yesterday.

William August Schultz says he saw Luetgert choke his wife last September. Charles Thone swore that in raking out stuff from under the vat he found what he believes was a part of a human tooth.

Charles Hengst testified that he heard a walling cry of pain or terror come from the Luetgert factory on the night of May 1.

Gottlieb Schimpka is corroborated by Nicholas Faber, who also saw Mr. and Mrs. Luetgert in the alley on the night of May 1.

Mrs. Christine Johnson, a cousin of Mrs. Luetgert and an important witness for the state, is too ill to testify.

FAMINE THREATENS IRELAND.

Gloomy Crop Reports from the Farming Districts of Ireland.

New York, Sept. 8.—A dispatch from London says that special inquiries throughout Ireland fully corroborate the alarming predictions cabled Saturday of the failing of the harvest and a consequent impending famine. Cries of warning to the government are rising in a crescendo scale from all parts of Ireland. They are not confined, as in former years of distress, to the congested districts on the western seaboard.

The potato crop is generally a failure, while the other crops have been hopelessly injured by the unparalleled inclemency of the season. To aggravate the condition of affairs caused by the failure of the potato crop the prices of provisions are considerably increased. The Irish government has adopted no measure yet to cope with the threatened famine.

Massillon Miners Decline.

Massillon, Ohio, Sept. 8.—Massillon district miners held a mass convention here Tuesday and appointed John Adley, James Parks, and J. Mossop delegates to the National convention, representing 2,100 miners. These delegates were instructed to work and vote against acceptance of the proposition to return to work at 65 cents. The mass convention also voted to re-enter the organization of the United Mine Workers.

No Fear of Yellow Fever.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 8.—Night fell upon New Orleans without a single case of yellow fever having been reported to the Board of Health. But one imported case thus far has been developed here, and death has wiped that out. The Board of Health, through its president, Dr. Olliphant, and its president pro tem, Dr. Walmsley, declared that in spite of all reports to the contrary not one of the many who had come hither from Ocean Springs had been stricken with the fatal disease.

Swatis Are Surrendering.

Simla, Sept. 8.—The frontier reports are more favorable. The spies say the Orakzais appear to be disheartened. They lost fifteen men killed in the attack on Fort Gulistan and are now holding councils. The British political officer at Malakand reports the Swatis to be submitting and to be surrendering more guns and swords, which, with the previous surrender of arms and the fines imposed, completes the government's demands and terms for the punishment of the Swati tribes.

Probable Demands of Carson.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 8.—The course of James Carson, president of the state organization, at the miners' conference in Columbus cannot be foretold with certainty. It is probable, however, that he will endeavor to carry out the wishes of the Illinois miners by demanding a rate equally as high as that conceded the eastern miners. Resolutions to this effect were passed here and at many other mass meetings of miners throughout central and southern Illinois.

Changes Sentence to Death.

Barcelona, Sept. 8.—The Captain General of this province declined to ratify the sentence of imprisonment passed by a military tribunal on Sempan, whereupon the court again met and condemned the prisoner to death. The case has now been transferred to the Supreme Council of War in Madrid. It is expected that the council will annul the death sentence and indorse the original sentence of forty years' imprisonment.

Extra Session in Hawaii.

Washington, Sept. 8.—The State Department has been notified by Minister Sewall at Honolulu that President Dole has issued a call for a session of the Hawaiian Senate on Sept. 8. The object of the session is not stated, but it is supposed to bear on the proposed annexation treaty with the United States.

May Unite for Defense.

Berlin, Sept. 8.—The Brussels correspondent of the Tagblatt announces that the governments of Belgium and Holland are about to conclude a defensive treaty. Fear is expressed, the correspondent says, that Belgium will be the seat of the next war between France and Germany.

FEAR PULP FAMINE
IN PAPER MILLS

MANUFACTURERS AROUND AP-
PLETON ALARMED.

Miner Falls Sixty Feet Down a Shaft and is Killed Instantly—Fatal Accident on a Railroad Crossing at Manitowoc—Brief Bits of Badger State News.

New Orleans, Sept. 8.—It was considerably after midnight this morning when word of health office, was closed for a few hours and the tired physicians went home to snatch a few hours of rest. Up to that time, although the widest publicity had been given to the Gelphi case and the desire of the board was known that every suspicious case should be promptly reported, no news was received at the office to lead to the belief that there existed a single case of yellow fever in New Orleans. The office was open early this morning, but up to 9 o'clock no report was made of any suspicious cases.

The board will hold another meeting to act on quarantine regulations, and there will be informal conferences daily while the scare lasts. It is understood that at the meeting there will be some modifications of the regulations adopted yesterday quarantining the entire coast, and steps will be taken to allow residents of New Orleans who are sojourning at unaffected ports to return to the city after having been properly examined and furnished with certificates that they have not been in proximity to any case of yellow fever. Although the action of Mobile and Galveston in quarantining New Orleans is naturally resented, there is no disposition here to retaliate unless fever shall appear in one or both of those cities. Many small towns in Mississippi and Louisiana have quarantined against New Orleans, but the barriers are likely to be raised at once if no more cases develop here. In the meantime the physicians are unshaken in their belief that such a cordon can be drawn around the Gelphi residence as to prevent the spread of the sickness.

Dr. H. A. Gant of Water Valley, member of the state board of health, has taken charge of the situation at Ocean Springs, and will spare neither pains nor money in an effort to stamp out the prevailing fever. He is of the opinion that with care and good management this can be done in a very few days. All houses where fever has been or may be will be thoroughly looked after, and the sick will be isolated. Today the board has put out disinfectants in all the principal streets and the town will be strewn with lime from one end to the other.

The excitement has quieted down considerably, and the people, now that the first scare is over, see that things are no worse than they have been all along; and, in fact, are better, as there has been but one new case reported in the last twenty-four hours, and there are but three so-called suspicious cases among the fever patients in the town. The other cases are all doing well. The duration of the fever is only from twenty-four to forty-eight hours, and some of the patients are not confined to their beds at all from the disease.

UNCLE SAM TAKES HOLD.

Tickets from Yellow Fever District to Be Sold Only to Points North.

Washington, Sept. 8.—In addition to Dr. Guiteras, Drs. Murray and Carter, also yellow fever experts, have been ordered by the Marine Hospital corps to the scene of the epidemic at Ocean Springs.

The following order was telegraphed yesterday to Past Assistant Surgeon Washin at Mobile: "Until a cordon is established, have railroad agents sell tickets only to northern points, north of Washington, or points in mountainous districts, and keep record of all who leave, with points of their destination, notifying local authorities. Arrange for cordon, employ necessary help, and turn matters over to Dr. Murray on his arrival and report to him for duty."

Orders have also been given to transfer the camp outfit from Waynesville to Ocean Springs. Dr. Guiteras is expected to arrive to-day.

To Revise Mining Laws.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 8.—The committee appointed by the International Mining Congress at its last session to revise the laws of the United States relative to mining and report its result to Congress, assembled here today. The committee is a thoroughly representative one, its membership comprising W. S. Keys, California; F. K. Newlands, Nevada; W. S. Haskitts, Idaho; W. A. Clark, Montana; G. B. Dennis, Washington; F. A. Reynolds, New Mexico, and W. B. Potter, Missouri.

Double Standard in Peru.

Panama, Sept. 8.—The correspondent in San Jose, Costa Rica, cables that the Costa Rican government ignores the existence of the alleged treaty between Japan and Nicaragua. The Costa Rican government believes that it has vitally important interests in the construction of the Nicaragua Canal and that the action of the two governments directly interested is prejudicial to them. The Costa Rican government declares that it is prepared to defend its position.

SIX MEN ARE KILLED
BY NITROGLYCERIN

TERRIBLE EXPLOSION AT CY-
NET, OHIO.

Number of Deaths Unknown—Flames From a Freshly Shot, Gas Well Cause An Awful Disaster—Explosion of Nitroglycerin Responsible for the Accident.

Cyngnet, O., Sept. 8.—A terrible explosion of nitroglycerin occurred here Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, which resulted in the death of six persons, whose names are known and others at present unknown. The killed: SAMUEL BARBER, ALLEN FALLIS, JOHN THOMPSON, CHARLES BARTEL, HENRY LANDSDALE, JOHN HAVENS.

The explosion occurred at Grant well, located at the rear of the National Supply company's office building, in the village limits. This well had just been shot by Samuel Barber. When the 120 quarts of glycerin let down into the well exploded the gas ignited and the flames shot high above the derrick. Several drillers climbed into the derrick to shut off the gas, but they had hardly got there when there was a terrific explosion of another 120 quarts of the stuff.

The National Supply company's building was completely demolished and nothing remains but a big hole where the wagons stood. There is not a whole pane of glass in any window in the town, and every house and store was shaken to its foundations.

Who were in the derrick and who were killed cannot be learned now, owing to the excitement. Many spectators were wounded.

Trial of the Eldon Gang.

Ottumwa, Iowa, Sept. 8.—The trial of the gang charged with the robbery of the Eldon bank began Tuesday. The first on trial is "Buck" Murray, who is supposed to have done the actual work of cracking the safe.

Ed Sterling, one of the regular panel, received an anonymous letter offering him money if he would "hang" the jury. He gave the letter to the Judge.

The officers have been warned that an effort will probably be made to make a rush on them some time when going to or from the jail with Murray, and he is under extra heavy guard. A large number of Murray's friends are here and will swear to an alibi for him. After Murray, Stevens, the marshal at Eldon, who confesses to having instigated the crime, will be tried. His defense will be insanity.

Evidences of Theft Burned.

Mason City, Iowa, Sept. 8.—Another sensation has developed in the Mitchell county defalcation. Some person broke into the county treasurer's office and vault and burned and destroyed a large part of the records needed to clear up the recent $5,000 defalcation which was discovered under the Pelton regime. Pelton was killed by a bull about six weeks ago. The board of supervisors put an expert at the books but the burning of the records kills all hope of ferreting out the matter. A reward of $2,100 is offered for the arrest of the guilty person.

President Andrews Is Firm.

Providence, R. I., Sept. 8.—It is unofficially announced that Dr. Andrews will insist on the acceptance of his resignation from the presidency of Brown university. This decision was arrived at after a conference between Dr. Andrews and the advisory and the executive committees of the corporation. His connection with the Cosmopolitan university, it is thought, will take up too much time to permit of his devoting his attention to both universities. His decision is in spite of a letter received by him from the faculty begging him to remain.

Iowa Fusionists File a Protest.

Des Moines, Sept. 8.—J. Belange, chairman of the state committee of popular fusionists, Tuesday filed a protest with the secretary of state against the middle-of-the-road ticket going on the official ballot under the name of "people's party." He presents the same arguments as were given in the petition for injunction, which was not issued in time to be effective. The protest will be heard by the state election board some time this month.

THE BASEBALL REPORT.

Harding of the Clubs in the Various Leagues.

New York made the league race for the pennant more interesting by taking two games from the Cleveland, and it looks as though Joyce's talk about the Giants may come true. He said that all the leaders had to do was to drop a game now and then and near the end of the season they would find the New Yorks pretty dangerous. Both Boston and Baltimore had a lay-off.

The western men, under the command of Rudolph Loebenstein of Chicago, the quartermaster-general and the bearer of the official documents, reached here today. Many of the Grand Army posts of this state have accepted invitations to participate in the parade, and it is estimated that at least 4,000 veterans and Sons of Veterans will march. Cincinnati is working for the next encampment. The contest for commander in chief promises to be spirited. Commander Rake is asking for reelection. The other candidates so far announced are John R. Neely of Washington, D. C.; L. P. Dilly of Iowa; L. J. Macy of New York; F. C. Stillson of Michigan and Charles P. Darling of Massachusetts.

Says Germany Cannot Succeed.

Paris, Sept. 8.—The Gaulois prints an interview with Prince Bismarck in which he is quoted as having expressed fear that the efforts made at Peterhof were so much wasted time. What was required, the ex-chancellor is said to have added, was a serious, active agreement with a well defined program and much clear sightedness and tenacity to achieve a result whereby the pretensions of Great Britain could be circumvented. The prince is further quoted as saying: "It is absolutely certain that Germany will not succeed in attaining this end, and she may regret having harassed Britain too much."

Killed by Wrecking Engine.

Reading, Pa., Sept. 8.—A Philadelphia and Reading Railroad wrecking engine crashed into a wagon at a grade crossing at Frush Valley, a few miles above Reading, Tuesday night, and three lives were lost. The dead are: Evan Heiser, aged 45 years; Warren Faust, aged 10; Leon Faust, aged 7. All were instantly killed. The boys were the sons of Allen Faust, a miller of Berkeley, this county, and Heiser, who was in his employ, was driving them in a covered wagon, with a load of flour. The presumption is that he did not hear the approach of the engine.

For Cable to Australia.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 8.—A number of telegraph magnates held a closed meeting in Vancouver in connection with the proposed cable line from Vancouver to Australia. After the meeting no news of a direct nature could be obtained regarding the business transacted, but statements were freely made the inside information obtained warranted the announcement that a Canadian Pacific cable from Vancouver to Australia would be an assured fact at a comparatively early date and that the present meeting had to do with some important preliminary arrangements, in which Millionaire Mackay is to take a prominent part. Mr. Storer, superintendent of the Pacific Postal Telegraph company, stated that his company would, of course, handle Pacific cable work at this end and that he, with others, would inspect the proposed landing stages in British Columbia at once. The entire party will leave for Victoria tomorrow.

Landslide Chokes a River.

Montreal, Sept. 8.—Almost a repetition of the landslide which occurred two years ago at St. Albans parish, Port Neuf county, on the St. Ann river, below Quebec, when a large section of the land bordering the river slipped down, carrying many houses with it, occurred Friday last. The slide is described as being 15 or 20 acres long and five acres deep. The river is completely blocked. A strange feature is that the river has not risen materially, and it is feared that other slides will follow. The inhabitants are terror stricken, and are offering up prayers in the church to avert a further disaster. The water undermined the sand and clay banks of the river, causing them to slip. It is feared that the whole parish will ultimately be destroyed.

Slain by a Jealous Lover.

Victor, Colo., Sept. 8.—Jealousy was at the bottom of an awful crime in this city. About 8 o'clock last night Henry R. Tillotson shot and killed his sweetheart, Ella Taylor, and then killed himself with the same weapon. The shooting took place between the city hall and the Florence and Cripple Creek depot. The young lady, who was very pretty and popular, had just returned from the Labor Day celebration at Grassy, whither she had been with George Brown, another suitor for her affections. Tillotson had told the girl that if she went to Grassy with Brown he would shoot her.

CLINTON'S SUCCESSFUL CARNIVAL

Children Made an Excellent Showing in the Entertainment Last Week.

Clinton, Sept. 7.—The carnival and cantata which was held in the Cheesman opera house Thursday evening, last, was a grand success in every particular. Too much praise cannot be given to Mrs. Gaines, who had charge of the entire program. The large hall was filled to its utmost capacity. Murry's orchestra furnished the music. Hazel Fisher as "the little Irish girl who came across the briny ocean to reach Philadelphia in the morning," and Master Frankie Gaines in the "Funny Old Gal," received an enthusiastic encore, and both received an enthusiastic encore, and reappeared on the stage to the satisfaction of all. Much credit is due the young ladies who took part in the grand march, carrying pretty banners. Lillian Soper carried off the prize; she represented Mr. Gaines' blacksmith shop. The solos by Mrs. W. BELOIT IS AGAINST INTER-URBAN ROAD

MERCHANTS FEAR MUCH LOSS OF TRADE.

The Line is Declared to Be in the Interest of Janesville and Rockford—Free Press Says There is No Room in the City For the Car Tracks.

Beloit will fight the inter-urban electric road. Business men prophesy that the Line City would be sapped by Rockford and Janesville. The Free Press says: "It is a blooming, beautiful picture that is sought to be presented to the citizens of Beloit—making their city a suburb of Rockford and Janesville, and turning its principal thoroughfare into a convenience for our neighboring cities. The picture presented is a beautiful one for the citizens of Rockford and Janesville who pay none of Beloit's taxes and who have contributed nothing to its development and will not contribute anything to its future progress. With an electric road connecting the three cities there will not be a single tax payer of Beloit who will not be injured by it in the depreciation of his property either real or personal. Beloit will not draw from either Rockford or Janesville but on the contrary, will be drawn from by both these cities—will be continually sucked by them. There is not one single sound argument which can be advanced to a Beloit tax payer or a Beloit citizen to induce him to look with favor upon the construction of an electric road through the city such as is talked of. Thus far in its history as a municipality Beloit has struggled onward and upward alone until it has nearly wiped out its great indebtedness, and can soon move safely forward on the path of judicious modern municipal development, but it cannot do this if now or at any future time the octopus tentacles of Rockford and Janesville are thrust into it and its life-blood sucked out, as would inevitably be the case if this electric railway, now in the air, should ever materialize. That such an enterprise should be looked upon with favor and encouraged by business men and tax payers of Rockford and Janesville, is very natural. Why should they not? They show very well what the result would be. The greater would devour the smaller. This has invariably been the case wherever these electric lines have been run. Situated as Beloit is between these two enterprising county seat cities, neither one of them contributing a single cent to the upbuilding of our city or to defraying our municipal expenses an electric railway connecting the three cities would be the most serious misfortune that could befall Beloit.

"The Free Press speaks for Beloit and its citizens. An electric road will bring no additional business to Beloit. On the contrary, it will take away much that it has. It will not appreciate the value of its real estate, but will instead depreciate it, by lessening the demand. In many ways it will injure the city, and in no way will it benefit it. The railroads already give us frequent and convenient access to our neighboring cities. We require no more than we have.

"There is no room on any of our streets, or within the bounds of our municipality, for an electric railway whose principal and practically sole object would be to enable Rockford and Janesville to suck Beloit and its contiguous country dry."

Local Members Watching the Fulton Controversy with Lively Interest.

Local members of the Modern Woodmen lodge are still watching with interest the trouble over the locating of the camp's headquarters. Fulton, Ill., citizens have addressed to Judge Best of Rock Island, an open letter in the Modern Woodmen case, briefly reviewing the legal status of the trouble over the proposed removal of Head Clerk Hawes' office from Fulton, and asking that they be permitted to have a fair hearing in open court at a regular term, when the matter may be determined on its merits. They agree, if this is done, to abide peacefully by the decision, whatever it may be. The letter is signed by Mayor Schwab, ex-mayor Sardam and thirty-eight others. The argument on the latest injunction will be heard by Judge Best Monday at Rock Island.

ROBBER'S JAW IS BROKEN

Frank Hunt Carried a Fracture For Four Days Without Knowing.

Frank Hunt, who is locked up in jail charged with having a hand in the Milton car robbery, is wearing his jaw in a sling. The jaw bone is broken, and had been broken four days before Hunt found it out. The officers discovered his condition when they brought him down to jail, and Dr. Joe Whiting had considerable difficulty in dressing his injury. Hunt said he was hurt by falling from a tobacco shed, but the police think it more likely that a brakeman or a fellow tramp hoisted him over the end of a freight car.

The boys have found a friend, it is said, in the person of a West Milwaukee street restaurant keeper, who is willing to retail the little coffin nails at the old price of five cents a package. Other dealers who are members of the local combination say that the move made by this one dealer will not break up their arrangement, as the advance in price among manufacturers compels them to charge eight cents.

The doctors report several accidents of late as the result of stilt walking, but say that none were serious.

CHAINLESS WHEEL IN TOWN

Local Bicyclers Interested in the Construction of the New Machine.

Local wheelmen are inspecting with considerable interest a chainless bicycle. W. F. Palmer of 160 North Jackson street, has one of these novel machines, and has ridden it for the last few days. In place of the chain, three cog wheels are used. Two of the wheels are placed where the sprockets are usually placed. The third is a large cogged ring between the two.

The new chainless device may be placed on any machine at a cost of about $25, it is said.

Today's Chicago papers quote E. M. Jeffray, business manager of The Referee, as saying:

"The chainless wheel will be on the market soon. It will be after the style of the old league chainless. Manufacturers have studied bevel gears constantly, experimenting with them in France and Holland. Twenty American firms have been granted permission to manufacture the wheels by the holder of the American rights.

It has developed that the bevel gear combination trust consists of one man alone. His product will be rushed through the factories and placed on sale at $100. At the same time he will not overlook the chain wheel, which will go for $75. During the last cycle show in Chicago a certain manufacturer was asked:

"Have you found a satisfactory chainless wheel?" He replied "No, and until I do there will not be fifty of our make on the market." In search of chainless wheel perfection he went abroad and remained by the side of his hobby until he saw in fancy the chains drop off of all the wheels in the country. Then he took his hat and came home. His arrival on Sunday was the signal for all wheelmakers to wonder what was brewing. In the opinion of many the chainless wheel will be tried first by the enthusiastic wheel people—the cycling club men. Some will mount them out of curiosity, others to learn the real merit and the rest through novelty.

"American bicycle products are growing in favor in England," claimed Mr. Jeffray, "but I believe the local gear will make little advance there."

C. M. ST. & PAUL FARED BADLY

Decrease in Earnings Shown By the Annual Statement Just Issued.

The annual report of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway company for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897 has just been issued. Results from operation for the year show a decrease of $2,195,060 in gross earnings, a decrease of $1,099,268 in operating expenses and a decrease of $1,095,791 in net earnings. This is a poor showing, but at the present time the earnings of the road are increasing at the rate of $100,000 a week.

Earnings from freight traffic, were $23,104,802, a decrease of $1,783,127. The number of tons of freight carried was 11,554,153, tons a decrease of 655,902 tons.

The decrease in earnings during the last year was due to the general depression in business affairs. There was considerable increase in agricultural products, but this was more than offset by the decrease in other commodities and by a shorter haul than is usual on wheat.

Earnings from passenger traffic during the year were $5,717,495, a decrease of 430,182 from the previous year. The revenue a passenger a mile was 2.27 cents, a decrease of .080 cents.

In the items pertaining to conduct of transportation there was a decrease in expenses of $627,472.

To heal the broken and diseased tissues, to soothe the irritated surfaces, to instantly relieve and to permanently cure is the mission of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. C. D. Stevens.

GAZETTE PRINTING CO.

A Little More Cost Brings Big Profits.

The addressing, folding, inclosing, sealing and stamping of five thousand circulars, with postage, will cost at least $65, whether the circular is good or bad. Notwithstanding this fixed charge, some strive to save a dollar or two on the cost of printing, although the goods advertised are to be judged by the character of the printing, just as a house is judged by the character of its salesmen. Good printing costs but little more, and that "little more" brings greater returns than any other part of the cost. Order your printing where good work is assured.

Proof That Fairies Exist.

Little Ethel, having alluded to fairies, the caller asked:

"Do you think there are such things as fairies, dear?"

THE CHARGE OF A JUSTICE

He Rides in Line of Battle Into the Municipal Court Act.

There is considerable talk among the county and city officials in regard to the action of Justice J. B. Loomis of Menominee Falls village, in extending his official capacity to criminal cases, inasmuch as he tried a defendant on charge of assault and battery, fined him one dollar and costs or ten days in the county jail. The certificate of conviction was sent to the clerk of circuit court C. W. Fraser, to be filed. This was the first intimation that any court outside of the municipal court had any claim to jurisdiction over criminal cases, as in 1895 a special act establishing a Waukesha municipal court and taking away all criminal cases from the justices was enacted by the legislature. The law is similar to the Rock county statute, which makes the case of local interest. Justice Loomis refers to chapter 257, sections 39 and 40, of the general laws of 1897, which in part reads as follows:

"A justice of the peace shall have concurrent jurisdiction and powers throughout the county with other justices of the peace; and whenever there shall be no police justice in such village, he shall have exclusive original jurisdiction as such justice of all criminal cases arising therein, and of all cases arising under the ordinances and by-laws of such village, and all the powers given herein to the police justice, and be taken as included within that designation herein. . . . He shall hold the police court and within the limits of the village have the jurisdiction of all cases whatever arising under the ordinances and by-laws of such village, and concurrent jurisdiction of all criminal cases arising therein; . . . He shall be entitled to the same fees as are allowed to justices of the peace for similar services, and no other compensation."

It is stated among attorneys and others that this general law can in no way interfere with the special act for Waukesha county establishing a municipal court, and that Justice Loomis has overreached his power.

ACHESON HOLDS THE STORE

The Norton Property in Avon Held For Rockford Claimants.

Sheriff Acheson now has possession of the general store owned by Charles A. Norton in Avon. The absconding Durand banker bought the store only three weeks ago before he fled with the funds of the Durand bank. The first proceeding that involved the Durand and stock were begun by the Janesville Barb Wire Co. Norton owed the company $30 and a constable was sent down to take $30 worth of goods out of the stock. E. D. Breed and Edwin Goldin got the Janesville officers up in the middle of the night on learning of this and levied on the stock to secure their claim of about $600. In their behalf Sheriff Acheson closed the store. When Norton drove away from Durand, he must have gone directly to Madison for his team was found loose in a marsh about a mile and one half from the capital.

ODD FELLOWS FIGHT THE FULTON SUITS

MEETING OF POLICY HOLDERS SATURDAY NIGHT.

Janesville Men Will Talk the Situation Over, and See What Chance There Is of Defeating the Assignee in Court—Attorneys Have Been Engaged.

Two hundred Odd Fellows will meet in this city Saturday evening of this week at the municipal court room in order that they may take steps toward fighting the suit brought by Assignee John L. Fulton of the Wisconsin Odd Fellow Insurance company. Sutherland & Nolan of this city have been retained by the local members to probe into the matter and if there is a ghost of a show for them they intend fighting the case rather than pay the assessment.

The defendants in Janesville and Rock county and the amount of the claims against each are as follows:

SPEAKING HER MIND WAS WELL WORTH $5

MRS. MARY CANARY SPENDS MONEY GLADLY.

Sued By Miss Lizzie Marsh For Wages She Pays the Judgment Against Her, and Frees Her Mind of a Burden of Criticism Regarding the Plaintiff.

During the closing days of the 19th century Five Points appears to be growing wiser. The time was not very far back when the citizens of that neighborhood first settled their differences with fists assisted by an occasional axe or coupling pin and settled them again shortly afterwards in the municipal courts. Now they have adopted the plan of a civil action first. Two of the leading ladies in Five Points' high life, Mrs. Mary Canary and Miss Lizzie Marsh, appeared before the public in the municipal court this morning as defendant and plaintiff respectively to a wage claim. To make short a story that might otherwise prove tiresome, Miss Marsh was paid $4.00, the amount claimed to be due by Mrs. Canary. The latter also paid the costs in the action. Those present before and after the hearing were quite confident that the opportunity seized by Mrs. Canary to give her opponent a tongue lashing was worth considerably more than the $5 or $6, involved. Mrs. Canary's face fairly beamed as she recorded the choicely expressed opinions of her enemy and might have grown radiant with satisfaction had she not choked several times for want of breath. At this juncture Miss Marsh usually resalinated in kind. It was the verdict of bystanders that the exchange of compliments would be going yet had the audience not grown tired and silently stolen away.

Frank Baldwin was noisy and drunk yesterday and this morning, having been locked up in the mean time, pleaded guilty in the municipal court to the charge and contributed a fine of $3 and $1 costs towards paying the expenses of the city and county. Henry Hammes, charged with stealing a horse appeared in the municipal court this morning and on motion of C. E. Pierce, his attorney the case was adjourned to Saturday so as to allow time to secure additional witnesses. It was stated that the defendant desired an early trial and it is likely that the trial will be held next week.

CHARM DEEP IN ICE BLOCK.

Henry Tall Makes a Strange Find in a 100 Pound Cake.

A solid gold K. P. charm was discovered this morning by Henry Tall frozen into the middle of a big block of ice. How it got there is a mystery but the supposition is that the owner must have lost it last winter while skating on the river and that the piece of jewelry sank into the block during a thaw.

Those Mutual Fire Ins. Cos. Frequently remarks are made in these times about such companies "passing the hat." (or making assessments) During '96 thirty-nine mutuals in Massachusetts GAVE BACK IN DIVIDENDS $2,852,000 and did not pass the hat either. During '95 thirty-two mutuals in Rhode Island did four times as much business as seventy-seven stock companies. DANCED AT THE PHI PSI HOUSE

The Madness of Lord Harry Culverhouse.

by Anthony Hope

[Copyright, 1897, by A. H. Hawkins.]

"Seeing that my father Henry is dead and that I am king, seeing also that I am no longer a bachelor, but a married man (and here he bowed to Margaret of Tuscany, his newly wedded wife), and seeing that Osra is turned 20 years of age—why, we are all going to be sober folk at Strelsau from this day forward, and we are going to play no more pranks. Here's a pledge of it." And, having said this, King Rudolf III took a deep draught of wine.

At this moment the ushers announced that the Lord Harry Culverhouse had come to take his leave of their majesties and of the princess. This gentleman had accompanied the embassy that came from England to congratulate the king on his marriage, and he had staid some months in Strelsau, very eagerly acceding to the king's invitation to prolong his visit, for such were his folly and headstrong passion that he had fallen most desperately in love with the fair face of Princess Osra and could not endure to live out of her presence. Yet now he came to bid farewell, and when he was ushered in Rudolf received him with much graciousness and made him a present of his own miniature set in diamonds, while the queen gave him her miniature set in the lid of a golden casket. In return Lord Harry prayed the king to accept a richly mounted sword and the queen an ivory fan, painted by the greatest artist of France and bearing her cipher in jewels. Then he came to Princess Osra, and she, having bidden him farewell, said, "I am a poor maid, my lord, and I can give no great gift, but take this pin from my hair and keep it for my sake." And she drew out a golden pin from her hair, a long and sharp pin, bearing for its head her cipher in brilliant, and she gave it to him, smiling.

But he, bowing low and then falling on his knee, offered her a box of red morocco leather, and when she opened it she saw a necklace of rubies of great splendor. The princess flushed red seeing that the gift was most costly. And she would fain have refused it and held it out again to Lord Harry. But he turned swiftly away, and, bowing once more, withdrew. Then the princess said to her brother, "It is too costly."

The king, seeing how splendid the gift was, frowned a little, but then he said: "He must be a man of very great wealth. They are rich in England. I am sorry the gift is so great, but we cannot refuse it without wounding his honor."

So the princess set the ruby necklace with her other jewels and thought for a day or two that Lord Harry was no wiser than other men and then forgot him.

Now, Lord Harry Culverhouse, on leaving the king's presence, had mounted his horse, which was a fine charger and splendidly equipped, and ridden alone out of Strelsau, for he had dismissed all his servants and dispatched them with suitable gratuities to their own country. He rode through the afternoon, and in the evening he reached a village 15 miles away. Here he stopped at a cottage, and an old man came out and escorted him inside. A bundle lay on the table in the little parlor of the cottage.

"Here are the clothes, my lord," said the old man, laying his hand on the bundle.

"And here are mine," answered Lord Harry. "And the horse stands ready for you." With this he began to pull off the fine clothes in which he had had audience of the king, and he opened the bundle and put on the old and plain suit which it contained. Then he held out his hand to the old man, saying, "Give me the 5 crowns, Solomon, and our bargain is complete."

Then Solomon the Jew gave him 5 crowns and bade him farewell, and he placed the crowns in his purse and walked out of the cottage, possessing nothing in the world saving his old clothes, 5 crowns and the golden pin that had fastened the ruddy hair of Princess Osra, for everything else that he had possessed—his lands and houses in England, his horses and carriages, his money, his clothes and all that was his—he had bartered with Solomon the Jew in order that he might buy the ruby necklace which he had given to Princess Osra. Such was the strange madness wrought in him by her face.

It was now late evening, and he walked to and fro all night. In the morning he went to the shop of a barber, and in return for one of his crowns the barber cropped his curls short and shaved off his mustache and gave him a dye with which he stained his complexion to a darker tint, and he made his face dirty and soiled his hands and roughened the skin of them by chafing them on some flints which lay by the roadside. Then, changing a second crown, he bought a loaf of bread and set off to trudge to Strelsau, for in Strelsau was Osra, and he would not be anywhere else in the world. And when he had arrived there he went to a sergeant of the king's guard and prevailed on him by a present of 3 crowns to enlist him as a trooper, and this the sergeant, having found that Lord Harry could ride and knew how to use his sword, agreed to do. Thus Lord Harry became a trooper in the guard of King Rudolf, having for all his possessions, save what the king's stores afforded him, a few pence and the golden pin that had fastened the hair of Princess Osra. And nobody knew him except Solomon the Jew, and he, having made a good profit, held his peace both then and afterward.

Many a day Lord Harry mounted guard at the palace, and he often saw the king with the queen ride out and back, but they did not notice the face of the trooper. And sometimes he saw the princess also, but she did not look at him, although he could not restrain himself from looking at her; but, since every man looked at her, she had grown accustomed to being gazed at and took no heed of it. But once she wore the ruby necklace, and the breath of the trooper went quick and eager when he saw it on her neck, and a sudden flush of color spread over all his face, so that the princess, chancing to glance at him in passing and seeing the color beneath and through the dye that stained him, was greatly astonished, and she reined in her horse for an instant and looked very intently at him, yet she rode on again in silence.

That evening there came to the quarters of the king's guard a waiting woman, who asked to see the trooper that had mounted guard at the west gate of the palace that day, and when he came the woman held out to him a box of red morocco leather, saying, "It is for you." But he answered, "It is not for me," and, turning away, left her. And this happened on three evenings. Then on the fourth day it was again his turn to mount guard at the palace, and when he had sat there on his horse for an hour the Princess Osra rode out from under the portico. She rode alone, and the ruby necklace was on her neck, and she said:

"I am going to ride outside the city by the river bank. Let a trooper follow me some way behind." And she signed with her hand to Lord Harry, and he rode after her through the streets and out of the western gate, and they turned along the bank of the river. When they had gone three or four miles from the city, Osra halted and beckoned the Lord Harry to approach her, and he came. But when she was about to speak to him and tell him that she knew him a sudden and new madness came on to him, and he seized her bridle and dug his spurs deep into his horse's flanks, and both the horses bounded forward at a gallop. In alarm the princess cried out, but he did not heed her. Along the bank they galloped, and when they met any one, which happened seldom (for the place was remote and it was now evening), he bade her cover her face, and she obeyed, twisting her lace handkerchief over her face. Thus they rode till they came at nightfall to a bluff of rock high above the stream. Here Lord Harry suddenly checked the horses, flung himself from the saddle and bade the princess dismount. And she obeyed and stood facing him, pale with fear and apprehension, but wearing a proud and scornful air. And he cried:

"Is it not well you should die? For you live but to madden men and drive them to sin and folly."

"Nay," said she, "to men of good heart beauty leads to goodness. From yourself come the sin and the folly, my lord." And she laid hold of the ruby necklace and broke the clasp of it and flung it on the ground before him, but he took no heed of it, but seized her hand and drew her to the edge of the bluff, saying:

"The world will be safer if I fling you down."

Then she looked in his face, and a sudden pity entered her heart, and she said very gently:

"Sit down, my lord, and let me put my hands on your brow, for I think you are in a fever."

And he sat down, all trembling and shaking, like a man with ague, and she

She looked very intently at him, stripped off her gauntlets and took his forehead between her hands, and he lay there quiet with his head between her hands. And presently his eyes closed and he slept. But Osra did not know what to do, for darkness had fallen and she dared not leave him alone there by the river. Therefore she sat where she was, and in an hour, the night being fine and not cold, she grew weary, and her hands fell away from his brow and she sank back on the green turf, pillowing her head on a curved arm, and there she slept with the mad lord by her and the ruby necklace lying near them.

At midnight Lord Harry Culverhouse awoke and saw Princess Osra sleeping peacefully with a smile on her lips such as decks a child's lips in sleep. He rose and stood upon his feet, looking at her, and he heard nothing but the sound of the horses cropping the grass a little way off. Then he drew near her and gazed long on her face, and she opened her eyes and saw him. But she showed no fear of him. She smiled at him, and she said:

"Even here I am guarded by one of the gentlemen who guard me in the palace." And she closed her eyes again and turned to sleep.

Then a shiver ran through him. As he dug his nails into the palm of his hands and, turning, walked swiftly and down on the bluff by the side of the river while Osra slept. And presently he fell on his knees beside her and began to murmur in a rapid rush of words, but he did not now curse her beauty but blessed God for it and blessed himself also for the preservation of his own honor. Thus he spent the night till day was near, and then he bent over Osra and looked once more on her, and he took up the ruby necklace and laid it lightly about her neck. And, feeling the touch of it, cool and wet from the dew, she again opened her eyes and, putting her knuckles in them, she rubbed gently, and she gasped a little yawn, saying, "Heigh ho, I am sleepy!" and sat up. And she said, "Are you not sleepy, my lord?"

"I am on watch, madam," said Lord Harry Culverhouse.

As the princess sat up the ruby necklace fell from her neck into her lap. Seeing it, she held it up to him, saying:

"Take it again and go to your own home. I am sure you gave too great a price for it."

He smiled, for she did not know how great the price was, and he asked:

"And must I, in my turn, give back the pin that fastened your hair?"

"No; keep the pin. It is worth nothing," she smiled. "Is it safe for me to go to sleep for a little longer?"

"Who would harm you, madam? Even I have not harmed you."

"You!" said she, with a little laugh. "You would not harm me." And she lay down and closed her eyes.

Then Lord Harry Culverhouse sat down on the ground and rested his chin on his knees and clasped his hands about his shins, and he cursed himself bitterly, not now because he meditated any harm to her—for his mad fury was past and he would have died before a hair of her head should be hurt—but because of the evil that his wild and reckless madness had brought upon her. For he knew that soon there would be a pursuit, and that if she and he were found there it would become known who he was, and her fame would suffer injurious rumors by reason of what he had done. Therefore he made up his mind what he must do next, and he abandoned all dreams that had led him into the foolish adventure on which he had embarked and put from him the wickedness that had filled his heart when first he carried her to the bluff over the river. And he rose on to his knees and prayed that if his deed were a sin—for it seemed to him rather a necessary thing—then it might be forgiven, but that, in any case, no hurt or harm should befall the Princess Osra by reason of anything that he had done. Finally he commended his soul to God. And then he took the ruby necklace in his hand, and, holding it, walked to the edge of the bluff.

But at this instant the sound of the hoofs of a horse struck on his ear, and the sound was loud and close, and he had no more time than to turn round before a horse was reined in suddenly near him, and a man leaped from it and ran at him and grappled with him. And then Lord Harry perceived that the man was the king, for when Osra did not return search parties had been sent out, and the king himself headed one, and, having the best horse and being urged on by love and fear for his sister, he had outridden all the rest and had chanced to come alone where Osra and Lord Harry were. And he gripped Lord Harry furiously, cursing him for a scoundrel and demanding what he had done to the princess. Then Lord Harry said:

"Do you not know me, sire? I am Lord Harry Culverhouse."

Greatly astonished, the king loosed his hold and fell back a pace, for he did not understand what he heard, but yet knew the voice of his friend. Then, looking down, he beheld Osra sleeping peacefully as a child on the ground, with her cloak spread under her that she might take no harm from the damp. And Lord Harry caught him by the arm, crying, "Are there others coming after you?"

"Aye," said the king, "many others. The whole of the guard are roused and seek her high and low in the city and outside. But how come you here, man?"

Then Lord Harry told the king what he had done, speaking very briefly and hastily, but yet sparing nothing, and when he told him how he had carried off the princess the king's hand flew to the hilt of his sword. But Lord Harry said, "Not yet," and continued to tell the king how Osra had pitied him and how he had watched by her and how she had slept again, bidding him keep the pin. Then, glancing at Osra, he lowered his voice and spoke very quickly and urgently, and the king held out his hand and shook Lord Harry's hand, asking, "Is there no other way?" But Lord Harry shook his head, then he kissed the king's hand, and next he went and kissed Osra's hand very softly and looked for the last time on her face, and he drew the golden pin from his purse and he put it gently and deftly among her hair. And he took the ruby necklace in his own hand and cinched it tight, and he said to King Rudolf:

"Sire, there are some in the city that knew me before, but have not known me since I have been in your guard, because I have altered my face. Take care that you so alter it that they do not know me again."

Then the king's breath caught in his

THE MADNESS OF LORD CULVERHOUSE

throat, for he had loved Lord Harry Culverhouse, and he asked again, "Is there no other way?"

"Hark!" said the other. "I hear the horses of your guard drawing near. I hear them to east and west and north, and do you not see shapes riding there to the south, across the river? If I ride from here alive, I shall be taken and the truth must be known. For my sake and hers, strike, sire."

Then the king took Lord Harry Culverhouse by the arm and drew him to him, saying:

"Must it be so, Harry? And we have lived as friends together."

"The sound of the hoofs is very near, sire."

The king drew himself up to his height and he raised his hat from his head and bowed low to Lord Harry Culverhouse, and he said:

"Now praise be to God for the restoration of this gentleman to a sound mind and may Christ grant him mercy for the sake of his honorable death."

And he drew his sword from its sheath and came up to Lord Harry Culverhouse, who stood on the edge of the bluff. The king raised his sword and struck with all his strength, and the head split under the blow, and Lord Harry Culverhouse fell dead from the

"Ah, sister, how came you here?" blurted into the river, holding the ruby necklace in his clinched hand. And the king shivered and a short sob burst from him.

On this instant arose an eager, glad cry, and 20 of the guard rushed forward, greeting the king and rejoiced to see the princess. And she, roused by the noise of their coming, sat up again, rubbing her eyes, and she cried: "Where is he? Where is Lord Harry?" And she looked round on the troopers, and they gazed at her, much astonished at hearing what she said. But Rudolf came to her and took her hand, saying:

"Why, Osra, you have been dreaming. There is no Lord Harry here. Lord Harry Culverhouse is far off in his own country. Did this rascal of a trooper frighten you?"

Her eyes grew wide in wonder, but before she could speak he turned to the guard, saying:

"By heaven's pleasure I came in time to prevent any harm except the loss of a necklace my sister wore, for as I rode up I saw a fellow stooping down by her and fumbling with the clasp of her necklace. He was one of your troop and had hidden out behind her, and as I rode up to him he sprang away from her, holding her necklace in his hand, and I leaped down from my horse and ran at him, and he retreated in fear. Then I drew my sword and drove him back to the edge of the bluff, and then I split his skull and he fell into the river, still holding the necklace. But, thanks to God, the princess is not hurt. Let search be made for the fellow's body, for perhaps the necklace will be still in his hand."

But one cried, "How came they here?"

"Ah, sister," said the king, fixing his eyes on Osra, "how came you here?"

And she, reading in the king's eyes the answer that he would have, said:

"The trooper compelled me to come hither with him, and he threatened to kill me if I would not give him my necklace, but I refused, and then he drew a knife and menaced me with it, and I fell into a swoon and knew no more until I awoke and found you here, and now I see that my necklace is gone."

"Bring her horse," the king commanded, "and ride in front and behind. We will return to the city at the best speed we may."

Then he mounted the princess on her horse and rode by her side, supporting her with his arm, and the troopers were some way off in front and behind. And the princess felt the pin again in her hair, and, putting up her hand, she pulled it out, and she said:

"He has given me back my pin."

"Of whom do you speak?" asked the king.

"Of Lord Harry Culverhouse. Is he indeed dead, Rudolf?"

"Are you still dreaming?" answered the king, with a laugh. "What had that fellow to do with Harry Culverhouse?"

"But the pin?" she cried.

"My wife set it in your hair before you started, for she wished to replace the one you gave to Lord Harry."

"She did not touch my hair today," cried the princess.

"Aye, but she did," said he.

The princess suddenly fell to sobbing, and she said:

"Tell me the truth, tell me the truth. Surely it was in truth Lord Harry Culverhouse?"

Then Rudolf drew very close to her, and he said softly:

"Sweet sister, the noble gentleman whom we knew, he whom I loved and who loved you in chivalrous deference, went from us two months ago. Be not troubled about him, for now all is well with him. But there was an unhappy man with you, who was not Harry Culverhouse, and who had murdered and mad thoughts in his heart. Yet at the end he also died, as readily and as nobly as our dear friend himself would have died for your sake. I pray you ask no more of him, but be contented to know that though he died by the sword yet he died in peace and willingly. But of our dear friend, as we knew him, think as much as you will, for the love of an honest gentleman is a good thing to think of."

The Princess Osra, hearing this, laid her hand in her brother's hand, and for a long while she did not speak. Then she said:

"But our friend will not come again, Rudolf."

"No, you will never see our friend again," answered the king.

"Then when you see him—for I think you will see him once again—lay this pin in his hand and bid him take it and keep it for the sake of the love I bear him. Perhaps he will hear you."

"It may be, I cannot tell," said the king.

"And if he has the necklace," said she, "pray him to give that to you, and sell it, Rudolf, and give the value of it in gifts to the poor. Yes, to all that are unhappy and afflicted, even as the poor man who was with me tonight."

"So be it, Osra," said the king, and he kissed her. But she burst again suddenly into passionate weeping, calling God to witness that her face was a curse to her and a curse to her friends and praying the king to suffer her to take the veil in a convent, that she might trouble honest men no more. And thus he brought her in a sad plight to the palace and gave her into the arms of his wife, still sobbing bitterly. And he himself took the pin, and when the body of the mad trooper was found, with his own hand he covered the face and put the pin in the hand from which he took the ruby necklace, and he sold the necklace and used the proceeds of it as his sister had desired.

Thus the madness of Lord Harry Culverhouse which was bred in him by the beauty of the Princess Osra worked its way with him and brought him first into peril of great villainy and at last to death. And his name passed no more on the lips of any in Strolsau nor between King Rudolf and his sister, while the story that the king had told to the troopers was believed by all, and none save the king knew what Lord Harry Culverhouse had done in his madness. But Osra mourned for him and for a long while she would not go abroad or receive any of the princes or nobles who came to the court, but lay still, sick and full of grief, bemoaning the harm that she had wrought. Yet as time passed she grew again happy, for she was young and the world was sweet to her, and then, as King Rudolf had bidden her, she remembered Lord Harry Culverhouse as he had been before his madness came upon him. Yet still more did she remember how, even in his madness, he had done her no harm, but had watched beside her through the night and had, as morning dawned, entreated death at the hands of the king, preferring to die rather than that the talk of a single idle tongue should fall foully upon her name. Therefore she mourned for him with secret tears.

But he, although no monument marked his grave and although men spoke of him only as the mad trooper who had robbed the princess, yet slept soundly and at peace, and his right hand lay clinched upon his heart and in it the golden pin that had fastened the ruddy hair of Princess Osra.

THE END.

When We Demoralize the Strength

By excesses or imprudence in eating, we cannot hope to escape the consequences for any great length of time. The most robust digestion must succumb to abuse of that important function. But supposing that we have been foolish enough to enfeeble the stomach, is the damage irreparable? By no means. The dyspeptic has only to do two things to insure his ultimate recovery. First, he should adopt an easily digestible diet. Second, he should use with regularity and persistence, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the leading gastric invigorant of the age. The multifarious symptoms of dyspepsia, and the almost invariable attendant disorders, biliousness and constipation, will assuredly cease to persecute the sufferer if the above advice is attended to. Who that has suffered the torments that chronic indigestion inflicts will neglect to take advantage of a remedy which, if the most positive evidence of the medical profession, and the public is to be relieved with due credence, is an absolute specific for the complaint.

She Failed to Faint.

Cholly (who has left his fiancée for a moment, fallen overboard, and been dramatically rescued)—Did—you—aw—faint when you heard them yell: "Man overboard?"

Helen (sobbing)—No—No, Cholly—I never once suspected they could mean you—Puck.

A Bitter Experience.

Mr. Chumly—Now that you have been married six months, tell me what you think about married life.

Mr. Sadmug—From my experience, I should say that the necessity for a law against bigamy is utterly incomprehensible to me.—Tammany Times.

A Heavy Load.

Ella—I thought you were going to Chicago to visit Bella?

Stella—No, I have postponed my trip, as she writes that she isn't well.

Ella—All Chicago girls have that tired feeling from carrying their feet around.—Judge.

Useless Salutes.

"I wonder," said the man of a statistical town, "I wonder how much powder is destroyed daily in useless salutes?"

"There must be a lot," said the frivolous girl. "But I suppose women will go on kissing one another just the same."—Indianapolis Journal.

Running sores, indolent ulcers and similar troubles, even though of many years standing may be cured by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It soothes, strengthens and heals. It is a great pile cure. C. D. Stevens.

The Usual Experience.

Mr. Younghusband—I suppose you remember the pony and phaeton I bought of you when my wife and I set up housekeeping. Well, I sold the pony some time ago to pay doctors' bills, and now I'd like to sell the phaeton.

Livery Man—I can't spare the money to buy, but I'd be willing to trade, if there is anything in my line you want.

Mr. Younghusband (after long thought)—I'll trade for oats, if you'll grind 'em up. I believe oatmeal is good for children.—N. Y. Weekly.

Just Grounds for Suspicion.

Gentleman (in railway train)—How did this accident happen?

Guard—Some one pulled the bell and stopped the train and the boat ran into us. It will take five hours to clear the line for us to go ahead.

Gentleman—Five hours! I was to be married to-day.

Guard (a married man, sternly)—Look here, are you the chap who stopped the train?—Tit-Bits.

Naming the Baby.

"Yes, suh," said Col. Stillwell, gleefully. "I am a propuh subject for congratulation, suh. I have a daughter three days old."

"Have you selected a name for her?" "Yes, suh."

"What is it?"

"Araminta;" and yoh'll take particular notice the accent is on the third syllable.—Washington Star.

Original Sin.

"Well, Elsie," said Mrs. Moral Suasion to her three-year-old daughter, "did you ever tell God you were sorry for being naughty?"

"Ess, I did, and He said, 'Great Scott, Elsie, zat's all right. Zere's lots of 'em worser zan you are.'"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Whole Thing.

Mrs. Johnson—What paht ob de fowl does yo' laik bes', pahson?

Parson Mokely—I nebbah has my chicken cut up in pahts, Mrs. Johnson.—Judge.

Too Much of a Good Thing.

"I can't see why you object to young Softy. I'm sure he is constant."

"Worse than that. He's perpetual."—N. Y. Truth.

Moments are useless if trifled away; and they are dangerously wasted if consumed by delay in cases where One Minute Cough Cure would bring immediate relief. C. D. Stevens.
